Math

Focus: I can understand solving an equation or inequality as a process of answering a question.

Example: What does 15<n mean in the context of a basketball game?

Language Arts

Focus: I can explain how a character changes and grows throughout the plot of a story or novel.

Example:

Here are some of the books your child could be reading this quarter at school.

Number the Stars

Snow Treasure

The Zero Chronicles: Book 1-Zero G

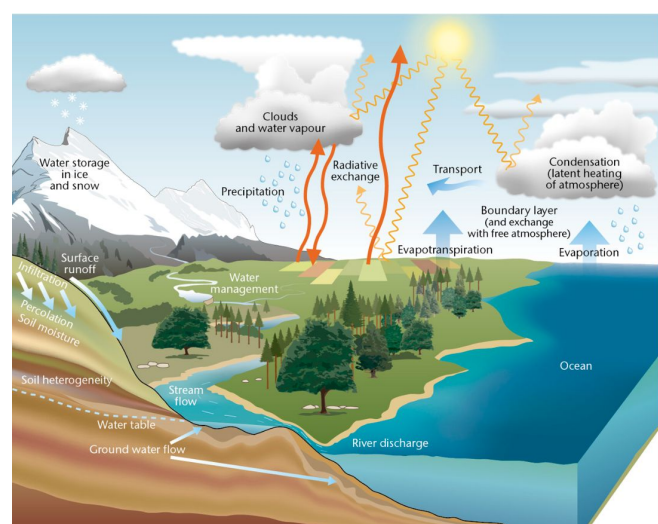

The War that Saved Me

Science

Focus: I can explain how uneven heating across Earth's surface causes changes in density, which result in convection currents in water and air, creating patterns of atmospheric and oceanic circulation that determine regional and global climates.

Example:

The energy from the sun drives the Hydrologic Cycle (water cycle).

Social Studies

Focus: I can interpret graphics, maps, charts, and graphs to understand changes in societies over time.

Example: I can gather facts from images, videos, and informational texts, (including atlases and biographies).

I can make connections between the abundance of food led to overcrowding in cities during the middle ages. The lack of scientific knowledge, hygiene, and building codes in those crowded cities led to _____ in the Middle Ages.
